WHKT 1650 and The Brier Group are proud to announce that veteran talk host Brian Holland is returning to the station's lineup on Tuesday, March 1. Brian will be hosting "Face to Face", an interview program that will air Monday through Friday evenings from 9:00 pm until 11:00 pm. The program will also stream live on the station's website, www.1650WHKT.com.

The program will be formatted differently than Brian's past hosting duties. The first segment of the show will be an update and analysis of the day's news stories. Following the bottom of the hour news, Brian will return with a nightly guest. Guests will be from all walks of life. "I'm very excited about this." Brian stated. "I've got an opportunity here to interview everyone from any field. I won't be limited to just one topic or type of topic, it's really what I enjoy doing the most, just interviewing folks." The second hour of the program will feature calls from listeners for the night's guests.

Program producer, Eric Nelson, said that the program's guest will be from the entertainment field, the world of the paranormal, human interest stories, and, of course, politics.

Brian Holland is a 23 year veteran radio talk host who has worked in markets from Virginia to Texas. A former television producer, print journalist, and a three time award winning broadcaster and journalist, he currently makes his home in the Hampton Roads area with his family. Brian has been a national talk host on two occasions, his first national outing being with the Liberty Works Radio Network (now defunct) hosting a morning show on 92 affiliates. This past November, Brian left a nationally syndicated overnight program due to health reasons.
